Bladen Community College Foundation Celebrates Donors and Student Success at Annual Reception

DUBLIN, NC — The Bladen Community College Foundation hosted its annual Donor and Scholarship Recipient Reception on Thursday, April 9, bringing together generous supporters and the students whose lives they have impacted. The evening served as a heartfelt celebration of generosity, perseverance, and the transformative power of education.

This cherished annual event provides a meaningful opportunity for scholarship donors to meet the students who benefit from their support. Throughout the evening, attendees shared stories, reflected on personal journeys, and celebrated the accomplishments of many recipients who have completed their programs and are now preparing to enter the workforce or continue their education.

A highlight of the program was special remarks from Scott Hamilton, President and CEO of the Golden LEAF Foundation. He spoke about the organization's ongoing commitment to supporting education and workforce development, particularly in rural communities. Hamilton encouraged students to embrace leadership roles and to use their talents to strengthen and uplift the communities they call home.

The evening also featured a touching story from Cindy Russell, who established the Jeremy T. Moss Second Chance Welding Scholarship in memory of her son, Jeremy Moss. Her message of hope and compassion resonated deeply, reminding attendees that everyone deserves a second chance and that education can be a powerful pathway to a brighter future.

Another memorable moment was a video testimonial from Ethan Johnson, one of the first recipients of the Karen Campbell Paramedic Scholarship. His story highlighted determination, gratitude, and a strong desire to give back through a career in emergency services—an inspiring example of how donor support directly impacts students and the broader community.

“This evening is a powerful reminder of what can happen when generosity meets opportunity,” said Sondra Guyton, Vice President for Institutional Advancement and Community Relations. “Our donors are not only investing in education—they are investing in people, in families, and in the future of our community.”

The Bladen Community College Foundation encourages individuals and organizations to explore opportunities to establish scholarships in honor or memory of loved ones or to contribute to existing opportunities for students. Gifts to the Foundation support a wide range of student needs, including tuition, books, supplies, food assistance, and emergency funding—ensuring that students have the resources they need to succeed.
